MISSION STATEMENT

The mission of the ISS program is to educate the next generation of analysts, scholars, and practitioners in the security problems faced by governments in today's international environment. The program is tailored to students who work full-time and need a flexible curriculum that offers a wide range of courses designed for a variety of practical and intellectual interests. The program is fully online, with courses taught by University of Arizona faculty with expertise in international security-related topics. The program therefore provides a highly flexible professional curriculum taught by experts in their field. Courses are designed to be rigorous and demanding, and to give students the skills and background to seek a career in governmental, non-government, corporate, and academic fields.

STRUCTURE OF THE MASTER’S DEGREE PROGRAM

Overview

The Master of Arts (MA) in International Security Studies is a 34-credit hour program.

The ISS Program is designed to be flexible for students, to take courses at their own pace and to focus on subject areas that are most relevant and interesting to them. As a result, there are no core classes or required concentrations. Students have six years to complete the degree based on their schedule and needs; most students finish their degree within two years.

Students must finish the ISS program by completing one of our capstone options. The majority of students complete the Professional Portfolio (POL 695A), which is considered the standard capstone option, worth 1 credit-hour. However, select students can pursue the thesis option, worth 4 credit-hours. As the thesis option is considered a deviation from the normal ISS plan, students must seek approval from the program administrators before they can pursue the thesis option. This leaves two options for students to complete the ISS MA, as described in Table 1.

The two broad types of courses, substantive courses and capstone courses, are described in more detail below.

Substantive Courses

*Capstone courses

Independent studies (POL 599) and internships (POL 593) are only offered if requested by the student, and they require approval from the academic adviser/assistant director or program director. More details on these courses are below.

Internships

Students have the opportunity to apply an internship towards the ISS Master's degree, worth 3 credit-hours (POL 593). To be eligible, the internship must meet the following conditions:

- It is a formal internship, and not a part of the student's day-to-day job/occupation
- It lasts a minimum of 135 hours
- It is approved by either the Program Director (kurzer@arizona.edu) or Assistant Director (klcline@email.arizona.edu)

Once the internship is approved, the following must be completed to gain credit:

- Before beginning the internship, students must sign a Letter of Agreement that overviews the work to be completed.
- Once the internship is finished two Evaluation Forms must be completed. These forms are available in the Appendix.
- Finally, a brief report must be completed. This is the student's opportunity to evaluate the internship in light of their completed course work, by drawing connections to their completed classwork and detailing what was learned during the internship. The report should be around 1,500-2,000 words in length. The essay should be submitted to the Assistant Director or Program Director (Prof. Ryckman or Prof. Kurzer).

Independent Studies

Students have the opportunity to complete an independent study (POL 599). An independent study is typically worth 3-credit hours, but can be reduced to 1 or 2 credit-hours if needed due to circumstance.

Independent studies will only be granted if a student has a desire to engage in an in-depth research project. In other words, independent studies are given to satisfy a student's academic interest. Independent studies must be approved by the ISS Director (Prof. Kurzer) or Assistant Director (Prof. Ryckman).

Capstone Projects

Professional Colloquium

The capstone project for the ISS program is the Professional Colloquium. The colloquium course (POL 695A) is a 1-credit class in which students develop a portfolio that overviews their academic achievements.

There are two broad goals for this project: first, there is an academic goal for each student to consider and synthesize what has been learned in the program, including how their studies have added to their knowledge of international security topics, overall world view, and how education can contribute to professional advancement. Second, the portfolio's professional goal is to provide students with tools to advance in the professional world, including writing a professional bio, updating their resume, and providing writing samples. Students also have the option to produce a personal website that can be shared with employers.

Master's Thesis

Select students may be interested in pursuing a thesis project in place of the portfolio. The thesis is worth 4 units; as a result, students need to complete only 30 units of substantive course work.

The thesis is a minimum 50-page (15,000 words) academic research project. To be eligible for a thesis, students must:

1. Have a GPA of 3.8 or higher after taking a minimum of 9 courses in the ISS program
2. Gain approval from one of the ISS faculty to be a thesis adviser
3. Have the adviser and project approved by the program director

The thesis committee will be made up of the student's faculty adviser along with the ISS Director and Assistant Director.

STRUCTURE OF THE CERTIFICATE PROGRAM

The Certificate in International Security Studies is a 12-credit hour program.

Students can take any four of the substantive ISS courses towards the Certificate. Students cannot apply transfer credit, independent studies, or internship credits to the Certificate.

There is no capstone project for the Certificate.

Transfer to the MA Program

Certificate students are eligible to transfer to the MA program if they are interested in expanding their studies and they have a GPA of 3.0 or higher in the Certificate program. Up to 12 credits taken as a certificate student can be transferred to the MA.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

The learning objectives of the ISS program are to enable students to:

1. Identify the central themes of modern security studies, especially as related to the student's concentration and interests. This may include:
 - a. Traditional security threats, such as war and violence.
 - b. Non-traditional security threats, such as the environment, resource management, and human security.
 - c. Foreign policy, including foreign policy creation, the influence of important foreign policy actors, and areas of foreign policy (such as democracy promotion).
 - d. The influence of globalization.
2. Demonstrate the ability to comprehend and explain international security phenomena as well as the broad theories and principles of international security studies.
3. Demonstrate critical thinking skills in the analysis and evaluation of the modern security environment and foreign policies.
4. Build and present arguments relating to international security, by conducting original research, generating arguments, and communicating those arguments through academic writing.

ACADEMIC ADVISING

The ISS Assistant Director (Prof. Ryckman) serves as the academic adviser to all ISS students.

Students are able to enroll themselves in classes and are able to design any course plan that fits their schedule and needs. If students have any questions about this process, they should contact the adviser by email at any time. In person or phone/video call meetings can be set up as needed by email. The adviser will also have office hours if students happen to be local or in the Tucson area.

Students are expected to fill out their Plan of Study (POS) during their second semester in the ISS program, to be completed before finishing the capstone course. The POS will include the student's expected graduation date, include all courses the student plans to take, all transfer credits, and indicate which capstone project the student will pursue. The adviser will communicate instructions to all incoming students about this process, and students should contact the adviser with any questions.

ADMINISTRATIVE POLICIES

Satisfactory Academic Progress

Students in the ISS program must maintain a grade point average of 3.0 in all UA graduate course work. This includes graduate course work taken outside of the ISS program at the UA, as well as all ISS coursework, whether it will be used on a student's Plan of Study or not.

A GPA of 3.0 or above, in all UA graduate coursework, must be maintained to be awarded an MA or a Certificate.

Students have six years to complete the program. Any transfer coursework also needs to have been taken during the six-year period of time from their expected graduation date. After six years, credits will "expire" and can no longer be counted towards a student's Plan of Study.

Probation

Students who fall below 3.0 at any time will be put on probation.

Should this occur, students will have one semester to bring their GPA up to 3.0 in order to continue in the program. Any student who fails to raise their GPA to a 3.0 in this period will be disqualified from the program

Admissions Criteria

To be admitted into the MA program, students must:

- Have a bachelor's degree or its equivalent from an accredited institution
- Have a GPA of 3.0 or above during the last 60-units of the undergraduate degree
- OR: if graduate work has been completed, have a GPA of 3.0 or above from graduate work

To be admitted into the Certificate program, students must:

- Have a bachelor's degree or its equivalent from an accredited institution
- Have a GPA of 2.75 or above during the last 60-units of the undergraduate degree
- OR: if graduate work has been completed, have a GPA of 2.75 or above from graduate work

Applicants with a Low GPA

Students with a low GPA, defined here as a GPA that is below that admissions standard for the relevant program,¹ will be considered for admission on a case-by-case basis to the program.

Two additional application materials are required from all applicants with a low GPA:

1. A statement from the student explaining the low GPA and why they believe they will be successful in graduate school

¹ A GPA below admissions standards are less than a 3.0 for the MA program, and less than 2.75 for the Certificate program.

2. A letter of recommendation, testifying to their ability to successfully complete graduate work, from somebody able to make that judgement

Based on the decision of the ISS Program, made by the Program Director (Prof. Kurzer) and Assistant Director (Prof. Ryckman), a petition will be submitted to the Graduate College on behalf of the student to waive the GPA requirement. No petition is guaranteed as the Graduate College has the final decision.

Non-Degree Status

If the Program Director chooses to not write a petition for admissions despite a low GPA, students are able to pursue ISS coursework under a non-degree status.

Students must take a minimum of 6 units and earn a GPA of 3.0 or higher in order to be eligible to apply for the MA program. If a student is accepted into the MA program, up to 12 units taken as a non-degree student can be applied to the MA.

Transfer Credits

Up to 6 credit hours may be transferred into the MA program. To be eligible the courses must:

- Be approved by the ISS Director or Assistant Director
- Have an A or B grade
- Be taken from an accredited institution
- Be taken within six years of completing the ISS program
- Meet all Graduate College rules

The Graduate College has the final say in the approval of all transfer credits. This includes both approving the credit and awarding the number of units (e.g., credits taken on a quarter system may be awarded a different number of equivalent units at the UA).

For more please consult the Graduate College website:

<https://grad.arizona.edu/gsas/degree-requirements/masters-degrees>

Leave of Absence

If students require time off, they can apply for a Leave of Absence. This will keep the student status active while s/he take a break from coursework. When returning from a Leave of Absence, students can register for courses without having to reapply for the degree program. University policy allows students to leave the university for up to two semesters without needing to reapply upon returning.

A Leave of Absence is only required if a student does not take courses for the entire fall or entire spring semesters. To file a Leave of Absence, a Leave of Absence form must be submitted through GradPath in UAccess.

Incompletes

If a student is unable to finish his or her coursework by the end of the term, a grade of "I" (Incomplete) can be awarded by the instructor. This grade is only to be given if all but a small portion of the coursework is completed (a minimum of 75% of the coursework has been completed), and only if deemed appropriate by the instructor.

Students have one year to complete their coursework and for the instructor to change the I grade into a regular grade (A-E). At the end of this one-year period, the grade will automatically convert into an E if the student does not finish the coursework. This E grade will count towards the GPA calculation. In extreme circumstances, a petition can be submitted to the Graduate College to extend this one-year period.

Instructors are encouraged, but not required, to use the University's Report of Incomplete Grade form as a contract between the student and instructor.

EXPECTATIONS OF GRADUATE STUDENTS

Graduate College Policies

It is the responsibility of students to familiarize themselves with Graduate College requirements on transfer credits, scholastic standards, forms that the student must submitted, and the time limit for the completion of requirements for graduate degrees, and additional policies. If students have a question about any of these policies or requirements, they are expected to contact either the ISS adviser or their Graduate College representative for clarification.

The following Graduate College sites can be consulted for more information on Graduate College policies and resources:

- Academic Services: <http://grad.arizona.edu/gsas>
- New and Current Students: <http://grad.arizona.edu/new-and-current-students>

Appropriate Behavior

All ISS students are also encouraged to share intellectual views and discuss freely the principles and applications of course materials. However, graded work/exercises must be the product of independent effort unless otherwise instructed. Students are expected to adhere to the UA Code of Academic Integrity as described in the UA General Catalog.

Opinions related to international security topics are diverse, and students should both accept and respect that diversity in opinion. As colleagues exploring these issues students are expected to treat their classmates with respect. Arguments are legitimate within the context of an intellectual or academic exchange; personal insults will not be tolerated.

FINANCIAL POLICIES

Tuition and Fees

ISS students will be charged $700 per credit hour. There are no course fees or program fees.

There is a mandatory fee that all students must pay, which is dictated by the UA administration for the UA Online Campus.

More information on tuition and fees can be found by visiting the UA's tuition calculator:

<https://tuitioncalculator.fso.arizona.edu/#!/selections>

Funding Information

There are no funding opportunities available through the ISS program (such as Graduate or Teaching Assistantships).

INTERNAL APPEALS

In the case that a student has an issue with an instructor, their grade, another student, or any other ISS-related matter, they should contact either the Program Director (Prof. Kurzer) or Assistant Director (Prof. Ryckman). We will consider all matters carefully and fairly, and either resolve them internally or seek resolution by contacting the relevant third parties. This could include an instructor, student, or administrator.

If a student has any issues with the Graduate College or another University of Arizona body, students are encouraged to contact either the Program Director (Prof. Kurzer) or Assistant Director (Prof. Ryckman). We will direct students to the correct petition or contact to best address their issue.
